

Warrior Wish

A Warrior Wish is a program to benefit a child that has relapsed a cancer diagnosis. A mutually agreed upon special activity, item or destination is intended to lift the spirit of the patient and family that would not be possible for the family to provide given the circumstances of the child's health. Under most programs, a relapse patient does not qualify for additional experiences or is too old for other wish programs. Warrior Wishes would be an opportunity for them to experience something special and to recognize their courage for continuing to fight their relapsed cancer. In many cases, the Warrior Wish is the last major event they live to experience.

Cancer Families United has provided 8 Warrior Wishes to local patients that have relapsed a cancer diagnosis.
